

Anti-Slavery Office,
New York, 24 June, 1862.

77
Dear Garrison,

I did not reach home till last evening, having spent the Sunday at Longwood. I have put the account of our interview with the President in the shape of a letter, of which I send you a copy, which you may use as original if it pleases you. Between you and me, I made the report for the Tribune; but I did it in a great hurry, and so did not make it complete in every particular.

If you have the dispatch in type, it will be easy for you to correct it by my letter herewith enclosed.

I am overwhelmed with work, of course, and have not time to write anything about my journey. I will only say, that the whole delegation were united in the conviction that the action of the Yearly Meeting was wise,<sup>and</sup> that the Memorial ~~and~~ was worthy of its object. Our friends in

Washington were cheered and encouraged greatly.

I am hoping to be able to be at the Framingham meeting, but am not ~~sure~~ that I can go.

Mr. Leonard, not feeling at liberty to open your letter to me, paid your nephew $25 for ~~his mother~~<sup>John Benson,</sup> agreeing to take your check after my return. I hope it is all right.

In great haste,

Yours truly,

O. Johnson.

C. J. N.Y. June 24, 1862.